THE PERFORMANCE REPORT

INTRODUCTION

The accounts for the Standards Commission for Scotland (Standards Commission) for the financial year ended 31 March 2024 are presented in accordance with the Ethical Standards in Public Life etc. (Scotland) Act 2000 (the 2000 Act), as amended by the Scottish Parliamentary Commission and Commissioners etc. Act 2010; and the Accounts Direction given by Scottish Ministers on 22 May 2012.

Overview

This section of the report is intended to give an understanding of the role and purpose of the Standards Commission, the activities it undertakes, the key risks to the achievement of its objectives and a summary of how the organisation has performed during the year.

Executive Director's Statement

As Executive Director, I am pleased to report that the Standards Commission has performed effectively this year by achieving its statutory duties and by meeting, or exceeding, the objectives identified in the Business Plan for 2023/24. The Business Plan 2023/24 can be found on the Standards Commission's website.

Throughout the year, the Standards Commission continued to work towards achieving the vision and the aims outlined in its Strategic Plan for 2020-2024. It did so by promoting high ethical standards and awareness of, and adherence to, the Codes of Conduct in place for all councillors and members of devolved public bodies in Scotland. The Standards Commission sought to increase understanding of the Codes' provisions to help councillors and members understand their responsibilities and prevent the occurrence of inadvertent breaches.

The Standards Commission also strived to ensure that it undertook its adjudicatory role, in respect of alleged breaches of the Codes, in a fair, proportionate and timely manner. It sought to publicise its decisions in order to inform good practice and deter poor conduct.

In 2023/24, the Standards Commission helped councillors and members of devolved public bodies to meet the standards expected of them by continuing to promote awareness and understanding of the revised Codes of Conduct issued by Scottish Ministers in December 2021. It did so by highlighting the key provisions of the Codes and providing explanations of how they applied and why adherence to them was so important, in its associated Guidance, Advice Notes, video and e-Learning modules. The Standards Commission also promoted the Codes and key principles of public life in news articles, blogs and social media posts.

In addition, the Standards Commission held training events for elected members of one council and for board members of five public bodies. It also presented, with the Improvement Service, joint webinars for councillors on how best to engage with members of the public (in person, in writing and on social media), while still complying with the requirements of the Councillors' Code.

The Standards Commission reviewed its Guidance on both Councillors' and Model Codes of Conduct, in light of feedback and enquiries it had received, and issues that had arisen during the Ethical Standards Commissioner's (ESC) investigations and at Hearings, since the revised versions of the Codes were approved and adopted. It also produced, published and disseminated a joint Advice Note with the Improvement Service on a Councillor's Right of Access to Information. Further new advice notes produced and issued in the year included ones for the public on the main requirements of the Councillors' and Model Codes of Conduct, and one for College Sector Board Members.

In terms of its adjudicatory work, the Standards Commission made 50 final decisions, in 2023/24, on cases referred to it between 1 April 2023 and 31 March 2024.

The Standards Commission held a total of 16 Hearings in 2023/24. Of these, six Hearings were held in respect of cases referred by the ESC before 1 April 2023. Of the 16 Hearings held in 2023/24, five were held online and livestreamed on the Standards Commission’s website, and eleven were held in person. Five Hearings on case referrals made on or before 31 March 2024 are scheduled to be held in 2024/25.

Purpose and Activities

Information about the Standards Commission’s business model, the environment in which it operates and its objectives and strategies is outlined below.

Business Model and Environment

The Standards Commission is a statutory body established under the Ethical Standards in Public Life etc. (Scotland) Act 2000, as amended. The 2000 Act created an ethical standards framework whereby Councillors and Members of Devolved Public Bodies are required to comply with Codes of Conduct, which are approved by Scottish Ministers, together with Guidance issued by the Standards Commission. The role of the Standards Commission is to:

- Encourage high ethical standards in public life; including the promotion and enforcement of the Codes of Conduct and to issue guidance to councils and devolved public bodies; and
- Adjudicate on alleged breaches of the Codes of Conduct, and where a breach is found, to apply a sanction.

The Standards Commission is an independent corporate body and, in the exercise of its functions, is not subject to the direction or control of any member of the Scottish Parliament or the Scottish Government.

Organisational Structure

The Standards Commission comprises five Members who are appointed by the Scottish Parliamentary Corporate Body (SPCB), with the agreement of the Scottish Parliament. The Standards Commission employs four members of staff, led by the Executive Director, who is also the Accountable Officer.

Purpose and Activities

The Standards Commission’s vision is for Scotland to have confidence that its councillors and members of devolved public bodies uphold the highest standards in their behaviour, conduct and decision-making. In pursuing its vision, the Standards Commission will demonstrate the following values:

Fair
being objective, transparent, consistent and proportionate

Approachable
being collaborative, considerate, respectful and helpful

Proactive
it will initiate, promote, deliver and learn

Strategic Priorities and Objectives

In seeking to achieve this vision, the Standards Commission’s operates against four-year strategic plans. The Strategic Plan for 2020/24 identified the following four key objectives:

1. To have a positive impact on ethical standards in public life.
2. To pursue continuous improvement in the ethical standards framework and the way we do our work.
3. To pursue and develop strong relationships with our stakeholders.
4. To ensure all stakeholders have easy access to high quality information about the organisation, its work and any initiatives.

Full details of the Standards Commission’s strategic objectives and the actions it intends to achieve these are provided in the Strategic Plan for 2020/24, which is available on the Standards Commission’s website.

Going forward, the Strategic Plan for 2024/28 identifies the following four key aims:

1. We will take all opportunities to be a strong and consistent voice for the importance of the key principles of public life and to educate on the standards of conduct expected of councillors and members of devolved public bodies.
2. We will continue to develop strong relationships with our stakeholders and work with them to resolve issues and prevent breaches of the Codes of Conduct.
3. We will make clear, evidence-based and well-reasoned decisions on cases referred to us for adjudication to help improve standards and ensure that any failure to meet those expected by the Codes of Conduct is dealt with in a fair, consistent and proportionate manner.
4. We will continue to invest in, engage with and empower Members and staff to deliver our work effectively and efficiently.

The Strategic Plan for 2024/28 is also available on the Standards Commission’s website.

Key Issues and Risks

During 2023/24, the Standards Commission identified the principal risk and uncertainties for the organisation during this year and the actions taken in mitigating these are shown in the table below.

Key Risk	Risk Mitigation
A loss of confidence in the overall ethical standards framework as a result of: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • avoidable delays in the disposal of complaints; • the Standards Commission failing to adhere to the key principles of public life and its own Code of Conduct. 	The ESC held quarterly meetings with Standards Commission Members and also met with the Standards Commission’s Executive Team on a fortnightly basis. The meetings with the Executive Team covered timescales and the number of complaints at admissibility and investigation stages. The ESC agreed to provide a written fortnightly update on the progress of cases at the investigation stage and the number of complaints at the admissibility stage. The Standards Commission reviewed its performance against key performance indicators three times a year in order to identify any changes that need to be made to processes where these were not met. These included key performance indicators relating to the timescales involved in the disposal of complaints. New Standards Commission Members were provided with training on the provisions in Standards Commission’s Code of Conduct, key performance indicators and timescales for responding. The Standards Commission carried out a review of the case decisions it had made in 2022/23 to identify trends and ensure consistency and clarity in reasoning. It also sought feedback on all Hearings and considered any received as part of a standard review at the Standards Commission meeting following the Hearing, so that improvements could be made to policies and processes as appropriate. This review also included analysis and discussion on what went well or otherwise, and what could have been done differently. Parties to Hearings were invited to pre-Hearing meetings in order to identify and resolve any procedural issues before Hearings, to help ensure these were conducted as efficiently as possible. The Standards Commission issued Hearing briefing notes to the Panel Chair and Members before all Hearings held, in order to ensure key issues that required to be considered and determined were identified. The Standards Commission retained a record of the advice provided and the time taken to respond to enquiries and to make decisions on cases referred to it by the ESC.

	Standards Commission Members agreed that any complaints that a Standards Commission Member has breached the Code of Conduct will be investigated by an external legal firm with any upheld findings being reported to the SPCB.
Insufficient resources in terms of staff time and knowledge, and Members' knowledge, time and availability means Standards Commission is unable to	The availability of Members and staff was checked before Hearings were scheduled and the composition of Hearing Panels finalised.
<ul style="list-style-type: none">• meet its business objectives as identified in the Business Plan;• comply timeously with its statutory and contractual duties and any reporting requirements; and• comply with its own Rules and Service Standards on making Section 16 decisions and holding Hearings.	Checks were undertaken for any potential conflicts of interest at the earliest opportunity after a referral from the ESC was made. The Standards Commission also sought information from the ESC about when cases were likely to be referred so that it could plan ahead as much as possible.
	New Standards Commission Members were provided with training on the provisions in the Rules and Service Standards and on all case and governance related policies by the end of the first quarter.
	Refresher training was also provided for all Members on the revised Codes and Guidance and on key governance matters including data protection, information retention and disposal policies and cybersecurity.

The number of complaints made and the consequent number of cases referred to the Standards Commission by the ESC is outwith the control of the Standards Commission; however the volume of referrals by the ESC impacts on the resources required to enable the Standards Commission to undertake its statutory functions. While the Standards Commission puts in place controls and identifies actions to mitigate the risks associated with this, it acknowledges that this will always have the potential to impact on its operational effectiveness and its ability to predict the operating budget.

Going forward, the Standards Commission has identified the key risks it faces in 2024/25 is that, firstly, it has insufficient resources in terms of staff time and knowledge, and Members' knowledge, time and availability, which means it is unable to:

- Achieve objectives identified in the annual Business Plan;
- Comply with its statutory, contractual and reporting duties (including in respect of the annual accounts and report, the budget submission and payment of invoices, salaries and pension contributions); and
- Meet its key performance indicators and comply with its Hearing Rules and Service Standards.

The Standards Commission identified that this could result from:

- Member or staff departures, with the resulting loss of knowledge and experience.
- Any delay in filling the two forthcoming Member vacancies.
- Unplanned staff absences.
- Not being quorate if Members are unavailable or have declared interests.
- An inability to effectively plan resources and activities due to fluctuations in the volume and timings of case referrals from ESC.

The second key risk is that the Standards Commission fails to make fair, consistent, well-reasoned, proportionate and clear decisions in respect of cases referred by the ESC.

The Standards Commission identified that this could result from:

- A failure to obtain and / or consider properly all relevant and material factors and evidence.

- Incorrect advice being provided and / or poor decision-making due to a lack of understanding or knowledge on the part of Members or staff.
- A failure to review decisions once made to see if any improvements or learning points can be identified.

Information about the actions the Standards Commission has taken, or intends to take, to mitigate the risks to the organisation's effectiveness and ability to achieve its objectives is outlined in the Corporate Governance Report.

Funding and Going Concern

The Standards Commission is funded by the Scottish Parliament and submits an evidence-based budget for scrutiny and approval each year. The budget is based on planned actions arising from the requirements of the strategic and annual business plans, as well as projections of Hearings related activity. The Standards Commission receives funding on a cash basis from the overall budget of the SPCB.

The Standards Commission's funding model does not provide for the holding of contingency funds. The Standards Commission has access, however, to contingency arrangements through the Scottish Parliament where required. The Standards Commission does not make provision for costs of any legal advice or representation required in respect of any appeal against one of its Hearing Panel's decisions, as it is not known whether any such appeal will be lodged and, if so, whether leave to appeal would be granted. It will, therefore, seek contingency funding to defend appeals if required. The infrequency and irregularity associated with the submission of appeals further inhibits the making of cost projections in this area. The Standards Commission may also seek additional funding for specific projects or initiatives or for any one-off purchases, if there is a sound business reason for doing so.

The Standards Commission will exhaust any potential to absorb costs from its agreed budget before seeking contingency funding. It will also ensure that it advises the SPCB of any potential requirement to seek contingency funding at the earliest possible opportunity and will ensure any proposal is supported by a clear and well-reasoned business case.

The SPCB approved a cash budget of £338,000 (in 2022/23, the approved cash budget was £301,000 and contingency funding of £33,000). Expenditure at the end of the financial year was £337,000, which was £1,000 (or 0.3%) under the agreed overall budget. An overspend in staff costs was driven by the actual staff pay award made by the SPCB being higher than that assumed in the budget and higher than forecasted costs for Hearings held in the year. This was more than offset by savings in other administrative costs.

The Statement of Financial Position as at 31 March 2024 shows a deficit on the General Fund of £9,000 (2022/23: £8,000). This is because the SPCB provides funding, on an ongoing basis, to meet invoices and expenses as and when they are approved and submitted for payment (as opposed to providing funds upfront at the start of the year). The SPCB does so to ensure that the Standards Commission receives the exact amount it requires, as agreed, in order to avoid a situation where it is required to operate a bank account. The financial statements in these accounts are, however, prepared on an accrual basis, meaning that they reflect all costs incurred to the end of the year, regardless of whether or not the payment has been sought prior to 31 March 2024. Inevitably a number of goods and services require to be purchased late in each financial year with payment and processing unable to be completed prior to the year end. As a result, as at 31 March 2024 the amount of expenditure falling into this category was £9,000. This is described as a deficit in the accounts, although this is a result of the accounting procedure under which the Standards Commission operates.

Performance Summary

As noted above, the Standards Commission performed effectively in 2023/24 by achieving its statutory duties and by meeting, or exceeding, the objectives identified in its Business Plan.

PERFORMANCE ANALYSIS

How Performance is Measured

The Standards Commission produced and published, on its website, an annual Business Plan outlining the work it will undertake each year in order to meet each of its strategic objectives as outlined in the four-year Strategic Plan in place at the time. The Business Plan provides information on how the Standards Commission will measure its performance. A Risk Register is also agreed at the start of each operational year to ensure that any risks to the achievement of the strategic and operational objectives are identified and monitored on a regular basis. Further details about the work undertaken by the Standards Commission to achieve its objectives in the past year can be found in the Annual Report 2023/24.

Strategic Plan 2020-24

The Standards Commission's Strategic Plan for 2020-24 states that it will have a positive impact on ethical standards in public life by:

- collaborating with others who seek to ensure integrity in public life;
- taking all opportunities to be a strong and consistent voice for the importance of the ethical standards framework and compliance with the Codes of Conduct; and
- obtaining and undertaking detailed analysis of qualitative and quantitative evidence on our work to promote the Codes of Conduct so that we evaluate our impact in a meaningful way.

Performance in 2023/24

In 2023/24, the Standards Commission had a positive impact on ethical standards in public life through its engagement with stakeholders, and its work to promote the Codes of Conduct. The Standards Commission also had a positive impact through its work to train and educate others on how the Codes' provisions should be interpreted.

Engagement with Stakeholders and Promotional Work

After Standards Commission Members held a development and strategy day to identify the organisation's aims and priorities moving forward, the Standards Commission drafted a new strategic plan to cover the period from 1 April 2024 to 31 March 2028. Having published a draft version and consulted with stakeholders on its contents, the Standards Commission laid and published a final version of the strategic plan at the end of February 2024. A copy of the Strategic Plan for 2024 to 28 can be found on the Standards Commission's website at:

<https://www.standardscommissionscotland.org.uk/corporate-info/strategic-and-business-plans>

The Standards Commission held its annual workshop for council Monitoring Officers, both in person and online, in October 2023. Matters discussed included whether more work could be done to try to help manage public expectations around what the Councillors' Code does and does not cover.

The Standards Commission also held its annual workshop for Standards Officers of devolved public bodies in March 2024. Attendees identified general issues and trends, and any problems their members were experiencing in terms of interpreting their Codes, which were based on the Model Code of Conduct.

The Standards Commission's Executive Director and Case Manager presented on the role of the Standards Commission and the revised Model Code of Conduct at the Scottish Government's 'Welcome on Board' induction workshops for Ministerial appointees in May and September 2023. The Executive Director also presented a joint session with the ESC on the ethical standards framework and ongoing issues and work at the SOLAR Autumn Conference in November 2023.

In addition, the Executive Director gave evidence on the Standards Commission's Annual Report for 2022/23 at the Local Government, Housing & Planning Committee meeting in December 2023 on a variety of matters, which included how the Standards Commission assessed or tracked interest in its activities at both local and national levels, whether it should have the power to initiate complaints about potential breaches of the Codes, and whether the Councillors' Code prevents elected members from scrutinising properly the performance of council officers and the services being provided.

The Standards Commission continued its work, throughout the year, to increase awareness and understanding of the provisions in the revised Codes of Conduct for councillors and members of devolved public bodies, that were issued by the Scottish Ministers in 2021/22. The Standards Commission promoted the revised Codes and its associated Guidance and Advice Notes through news articles and blogs on its website, social media posts and in its engagement with stakeholders. The Standards Commission continued to disseminate and publish its quarterly 'Standards Update' briefing notes, which contain information about work it is undertaking, events it is holding and general matters concerning the ethical standards framework. The Standards Updates also included information about cases referred to the Standards Commission, including the outcome and any learning points from all Hearings held.

News articles and monthly blogs published by the Standards Commission on its website in 2023/24 covered a range of topics, such as distinguishing between lobbying and helping constituents and service users; the importance of compliance with the confidentiality requirements in the Codes; and on when the Codes of Conduct might apply to councillors and members of devolved public bodies.

The Standards Commission conducted its annual review of the enquiries it had received in writing, by telephone and via its website and social media sites throughout the year, with the resulting analysis being used to inform content in its educational and promotional material.

The Standards Commission continued, throughout the year, to engage with its stakeholders, to share best practice and to discuss and resolve any issues affecting the ethical standards framework. This included engaging and holding meetings with the Scottish Government, the Improvement Service, SOLAR, Audit Scotland and the Northern Ireland Public Services Ombudsman.

The Standards Commission also worked closely with the ESC in 2023/24 to identify and try to resolve issues arising in respect of the interpretation of the Codes. The Standards Commission held regular meetings with the ESC to discuss suggestions for improving the processes for the investigation and adjudication of complaints about councillors and members of devolved public bodies, in order to achieve efficiency, transparency and consistency in decision-making. The Standards Commission engaged with the ESC on any proposed changes to its case related policy and process documents, and on its educational material. The Standards Commission provided informal input and a formal response to the ESC's consultation on his Strategic Plan for 2024 to 2028.

The Standards Commission also provided a formal response to the Scottish Government's consultations on:

- the National Performance Framework; and
- mandatory training for councillors on their role in the planning system.

The Standards Commission also responded to Scottish Parliament's Finance and Public Administration Committee's call for views as part of an inquiry into Scotland's commissioner landscape. Copies of all responses were published on the Standards Commission's website.

In 2023/24, the Standards Commission continued to promote its adjudicatory work by publishing information about all Hearings and 'no action' decisions held and taken on its website and in its Standards Updates. The Standards Commission contacted local journalists to advise them of scheduled Hearings. It also issued and published press releases summarising decisions made and the reasons for these, at the conclusion of each Hearing.

The feedback we have received from the engagement activities we have undertaken has indicated that these sessions have helped promote the work of the Standards Commission; have improved understanding of the Code and the ethical standards framework and have help to sustain positive working relationships with stakeholders.

Statutory Powers of Oversight

Complaints that a councillor or a member of a devolved public body (the Respondent) has contravened their Code of Conduct are made to, and considered by, the ESC. While the ESC's office is independent, the Standards Commission can issue statutory directions under the Ethical Standards in Public Life etc. (Scotland) Act 2000 to provide it with assurance that the ESC's office is acquitting its functions, in accordance with the governing legislation.

The Standards Commission issued a Direction to the ESC in 2020/21 (known as the Eligibility Direction), which required the ESC to undertake an investigation into every complaint about a councillor and member of a devolved public body unless:

- the Respondent had passed away or was an incapable adult within the meaning of the Adults with Incapacity (Scotland) Act 2000;
- on the face of it, the complaint could not, if established to have occurred, constitute a contravention of the relevant Code (regardless of whether any protection could be afforded by Article 10); or
- the complaint was made more than 12 months after the conduct being complained of occurred (or in the case of a course of conduct, the conduct ended).

The Eligibility Direction ensured that all complaints about councillors and members of devolved public bodies that could potentially amount to a breach of a Code, which are made timeously, were investigated. The Standards Commission considered the Eligibility Direction provided transparency and gave those who are subject to the Codes, and members of the public, confidence that there was consistency in approach in respect of how complaints were assessed in terms of their eligibility for investigation.

In 2023/24, the Standards Commission and ESC agreed a change to the second eligibility criterion so that a complaint, that on the face of it, could constitute a contravention of the relevant Code could also be rejected as ineligible if an initial assessment of publicly available evidence demonstrated that there had been no such breach of the Code. The Standards Commission decided that it was not necessary to renew the Eligibility Direction, when it expired in August 2023, as the ESC agreed to publish the revised criteria in his publicly available Investigation Manual.

Training and Educational Work

The Standards Commission supported councillors and members to meet the standards expected of them by holding training events on the Codes of Conduct.

In 2023/24, the Standards Commission presented training events on the revised Model Code of Conduct for the boards of Public Health Scotland, the Scottish Environment Protection Agency, the Judicial Appointments Board, City of Glasgow College and Clackmannanshire Health and Social Care Integration Joint Board. A training workshop on the Councillors' Code was also held for elected members of Clackmannanshire Council. There was good attendance at these events, with positive feedback indicating that they were well received.

In partnership with the Improvement Service, the Executive Director and Case Manager presented joint webinars for councillors on assisting constituents and social media, respectively, in January and February 2024. The webinars were open to all elected members and were aimed at assisting attendees understand how best to engage with members of the public, while still complying with the requirements of the Councillors' Code.

The Executive Director presented on key changes and issues with the revised Councillors' Code at a Scottish Member Services Development Network meeting in June 2023. Attendees provided insight into their experiences in assisting councillors in understanding and adhering to its provisions.

The Standards Commission publishes Guidance and Advice Notes that are intended to assist councillors and members in interpreting the provisions in the Codes. The Guidance and Advice Notes contain case illustrations (some of which are based on cases from Scotland, Northern Ireland and Wales, and some of which are hypothetical) to help councillors and members apply the Code to the situations they may find themselves in, along with examples of factors they may wish to consider when applying the requirements of the Codes. The Guidance and Advice Notes are all available on the Standards Commission's website.

In 2023/24, the Standards Commission reviewed its Guidance on both the revised Councillors' Code of Conduct and the Model Code of Conduct, issued in December 2021, in light of feedback and enquiries it had received, and issues that had arisen during the ESC's investigations and at Hearings. Following consultations with stakeholders, the Standards Commission issued and published a revised version of the Guidance on the Councillors' Code in February 2024, and on the Model Code in March 2024.

The Standards Commission and Improvement Service produced a joint Advice Note on a Councillor's Right of Access to Information. The Advice Note outlines the circumstances under which an elected member has a right of access to information held by the council. It also highlights some of the provisions in the Councillors' Code of Conduct that may apply and should be considered when an elected member is exercising their right to access information.

The Standards Commission produced and published Advice Notes for the public on the Councillors' and Model Codes of Conduct. These aim to help manage the expectations of the public, service users and constituents by explaining that certain matters are and are not covered by the Codes and complaint process.

The Standards Commission also produced, issued and published an Advice Note for Chairs of Devolved Public Bodies, which aims to assist Chairs of devolved public bodies, employees and others, by providing information about the role that Chairs may be expected to undertake within the ethical standards framework.

In addition, and following consultation with the College Good Governance Steering Group, the Standards Commission produced, issued and published an Advice Note for College Sector Board Members. The Advice Note aims to help members of college sector boards understand their roles and responsibilities, and provides information about how they should identify and manage conflicts of interest.

New animated videos on bullying and harassment, and the use of social media were published on the Standards Commission's website in 2023/24. These aim to aid understanding of certain key aspects of the Codes of Conduct.

The Standards Commission continued to seek feedback on its promotional and educational work throughout the year, to enable it to evaluate its impact in a meaningful way. All feedback provided was considered by Standards Commission members at their meeting following receipt.

Finance and Expenditure

Key Financial Information

The Standards Commission is funded by the Scottish Parliament and submits an evidence-based budget for scrutiny and approval each year. The budget is based on planned actions arising from the requirements of the strategic and annual business plans, as well as projections of Hearings related activity. The anticipated number of Hearings are forecast using information relating to the previous year and, where available, projections provided by the ESC. The Standards Commission and the Scottish Parliament recognise, however, that it is not possible to accurately determine, before the start of any financial year, how many cases will ultimately be referred to the Standards Commission by the ESC and, of those referred cases, how many Hearings the Standards Commission will decide are required. The costs incurred in holding Hearings continues to depend on a variety of unquantifiable factors, some of which are outwith the control of the Standards Commission, such as the location, potential duration of each Hearing and complexity of the complaint under consideration.

Expenditure against budget is monitored by the Executive Team on a monthly basis, meaning the Accountable Officer can identify key issues or concerns as they occur, which provides an opportunity for the prompt resolution of any financial matters. Members are provided with quarterly reports detailing expenditure against budget and highlighting variances and projections to the year end. This gives them the opportunity to determine whether the Executive Team is making sound decisions in respect of the use of resources and is adequately monitoring expenditure to ensure it remains within the allocated budget. It also gives Members an assurance that the Executive Team is working continuously towards meeting, and achieving, objectives while still applying best value principles.

Financial Position

The Statement of Comprehensive Net Expenditure and the Notes to the Accounts show the income and expenditure for the year. The Standards Commission's net expenditure on operating activities for the year ending 31 March 2024 amounted to £337,000 (2022/23, £289,000), against an agreed budget of £338,000.

The net expenditure was divided between staff costs of £300,000 (2022/23, £252,000) and other administrative costs of £37,000 (2022/23, £37,000). Staff costs include all remuneration paid to both staff and Members. Overall staff costs were higher than budget, with the actual staff pay award made by the SPCB being higher than that assumed in the budget. Higher than budgeted Member salaries were driven by higher Hearing costs than forecast. An underspend in other administrative costs was the result of lower staff and member travel expenses and savings on IT, events and PR costs.

Payment Performance

Payments made to suppliers of goods and services to the Standards Commission are processed by the SPCB through a Shared Service Agreement with the Scottish Parliament's Finance Office. The SPCB aims to comply with the Confederation of British Industry's (CBI) Prompt Payers' Code, which states that organisations should aim to make payments within the agreed contract terms or within 30 days of receipt of an invoice (which are not in dispute), for goods and services received. In 2023/24, the Finance Office processed all invoices on behalf of the Standards Commission within 30 days of receipt of the invoice. In addition, the SPCB aims, under a voluntary initiative, to process payments within seven days of receipt, in order to support business suppliers. In 2023/24, 100% of the Standards Commission's invoices were paid within this timescale (2022/23: 94%).

Social Matters

Sustainability and Environmental Impact

The Standards Commission recognises the importance of environmental issues and sustainability and endeavours to take such matters into consideration when making business decisions. While the Standards Commission is not directly covered by the Greening Government Commitments, as its offices are located within the Scottish Parliament building, it continues to support the Scottish Parliament's efforts in meeting their sustainability and environmental targets through compliance with the SPCB's policies and procedures. This includes choosing sustainable products, making use of waste and recycling facilities and, where possible, encouraging staff and Members to use public transport or car share. Further information about sustainability and environmental activities within the Scottish Parliament is available on its website.

The Standards Commission also aims to reduce its carbon footprint and continually seeks to develop and improve its processes to achieve this. Wherever possible and appropriate, the Standards Commission communicates through electronic media and disseminates all educational, promotional and training material via its website, social media and email in a cost effective and environmentally friendly manner.

Staff at the Standards Commission continued to follow a hybrid working policy in 2023/24 which allowed them to work either from home or the office. In addition, 6 of the 10 Standards Commission meetings held in the year were held online, meaning there was a significant decrease in travel to the office by Members. The Standards Commission continued to operate on an almost entirely paperless basis, with all records retained online and almost all correspondence being issued by email (in a few cases replies to enquiries had to be sent by post as no email address or telephone number had been provided).

In 2022/23, the Standards Commission signed up to a Social Impact Pledge, which is aimed at increasing the social impact of public sector organisations in Scotland. The pledge is a Scottish Government initiative that asks public sector organisations to commit to increasing their social impact by making a public commitment to change their current operations or policies. The pledge should include actions that the organisation was not already undertaking. The Standards Commission undertook two activities in 2023/24 in order to improve its social impact. A short work experience placement was offered to a secondary school pupil in June 2023, which allowed them to gain office experience and an understanding of the ethical standards framework. Secondly, the staff gave up a day of their time in August 2023 to volunteer at The Yard, a Scottish charity supporting disabled children and young people, and their families, through adventure play.

Community & Human Rights Issues

The Standards Commission has no specific social, community or human rights issues to report. In general, however, the Standards Commission's role in improving and maintaining ethical standards in public life helps to promote public confidence that decisions made in the public sector, which affect communities, are made objectively, honestly and in the public interest.

The Standards Commission's Hearings are conducted in public, either in person or online. If the Respondent is a councillor, an in-person Hearing will usually be held in the local authority area in which the councillor was elected. If the Respondent is a member of a devolved public body, it will be held in the area where the devolved public body holds its meetings. This demonstrates openness and transparency, as well as offering ease of access to members of the local community and press who may wish to view proceedings. Online Hearings are held in cases where there is little dispute between the parties and no witnesses (other than the Respondent) are to appear. All online Hearings are livestreamed through the Standards Commission's website, which again means members of the public and press can view the proceedings. The Standards Commission issues press releases both before and after Hearings to help increase awareness of the Codes of Conduct and the ethical standards framework in general.

In terms of human rights and, in particular, the right under Article 6 of the European Convention on Human Rights (ECHR) to a fair trial, the Standards Commission ensures that Hearings are conducted in a fair, transparent and accessible manner. It does so by publishing, issuing, and adhering to Rules, which outline the procedures to be followed at Hearings. All parties to a Hearing have the right to attend, to seek legal advice and to instruct representation. Guidance on procedures is provided to all Respondents particularly those who chose not to have legal representation at or prior to a Hearing. Hearing Panels carefully consider all relevant evidence and submissions before determining, on the balance of probabilities, whether there has been a breach of a Code of Conduct. Hearing Panels also take a three-stage approach when issues that concern the application of Article 10 of the ECHR and the right to freedom of expression arise. In determining whether there has been a breach of a Code of Conduct in such cases, the Hearing Panel will consider:

- Whether the facts found lead it to conclude on the balance of probabilities that the Respondent has failed to comply with the applicable Code of Conduct;
- If so, whether such a finding in itself is, on the face of it, a breach of the right to freedom of expression under Article 10;
- If so, whether the restriction involved by the finding was justified by Article 10(2), which allows restrictions that are necessary in a democratic society.

Information on this approach is published on the Standards Commission's website and sent to parties in advance of Hearings.

The Standards Commission has published a British Sign Language (BSL) Plan, which outlines the actions which the Standards Commission will take in the period from 2018 to 2024 to improve access to information and services for BSL users. The Standards Commission has published three BSL videos on its website. The first video explains its role and remit and how to make a complaint about a breach of a Code of Conduct by a councillor or member of a devolved public body. The second and third videos outline and explain the main provisions in the Councillors' Code of Conduct and the Model Code of Conduct, respectively.

The Standards Commission complies with the requirements of the Data Protection Act 2018 and the GDPR and has published a Data Protection Privacy Statement and Data Protection Policy outlining how it processes personal data.

Anti-bribery and Anti-corruption matters

The Standards Commission takes actions and has policies and procedures in place to mitigate against the potential for bribery and corruption. These include:

- Ensuring transparency in decision-making with the organisation's Strategic and Business plans, minutes, governance related policies and procedures and Hearing decisions being published on the Standards Commission's website;
- Keeping and publishing Registers of Interest. Members complete, and regularly review, the information detailed in their entry;
- Ensuring that procurement activity aligns with the requirements detailed in the Scottish Parliament's procurement policies, which are published on its website;
- Adhering to a Whistleblowing Policy, which outlines how Members and staff can report any concerns they may have about wrongdoing and malpractice which they believe has occurred or is likely to occur;
- Assisting in the completion of a range of audits (both internal and external), which give assurance on the effective governance and efficient running of the organisation; and

- Ensuring Members and staff declare and withdraw from the discussion and decision-making if they have any financial or non-financial interest in an item before the Standards Commission. This includes taking no part in any discussion or decision-making in respect of cases referred to the Standards Commission by the ESC, for example, if a Member has an association with or has worked alongside any potential party or witness to the case.

The Standards Commission reviews its Fraud Prevention and Whistleblowing Policy on a biennial basis to ensure it continues to be relevant and accord with best practice.

Equal Opportunities

The Standards Commission supports the principle of equal opportunities in its work and employment practices. This means that it is committed to continually reviewing and updating policies and practices to ensure that no individual is discriminated against, either directly or indirectly, unlawfully or unjustifiably because of their personal status in relation to age, disability, gender, marital status, pregnancy and maternity, race, religion, belief or sexual orientation. Equality impact assessments are undertaken in respect of all new policies, procedures and practices and when policies and processes are substantially revised. The Standards Commission is recognised by Carers Scotland as being a Carer Positive Engaged employer.

As part of developing the new strategic plan for 2024 to 2028, the Standards Commission reviewed the organisation's values and ensured that new members were aware of these. In addition, work was undertaken to ensure that the Standards Commission was more accessible to stakeholders, including creating a new page on the website for Respondents and producing Advice Notes for the public on what the Codes do and do not cover and how the complaint process operates.

Future Development

The Standards Commission's Business Plan for 2024/25 outlines its objectives for the forthcoming year that will contribute to the achievement of these aims.

In particular, the Standards Commission will review and update standard training presentations (and case illustrations) on the 2021 versions of the Codes in light of the revised Guidance produced in 2023/24, and the Standards Commission's experience in interpreting their provisions. The Standards Commission will also continue to further develop, publish and disseminate new e-Learning material, videos and Advice Notes in light of any emerging trends or feedback.

The Standards Commission will hold annual workshops with Monitoring and Standards Officers to discuss emerging trends and issues and how best to deal with these. The Standards Commission will invite key stakeholders, including the ESC, Audit Scotland, Scottish Government, the Colleges Development Network and the Improvement Service to these events.

The Standards Commission further intends to work with the ESC on engaging with all political parties represented on Scottish Councils asking for their assistance in promoting awareness of, and compliance with, the Councillors' Code and for them to advise of any issues with provisions.

Executive Director

Lorna Johnston was appointed by the Standards Commission as the Executive Director on 1 December 2014.

Register of Interests

The Standards Commission maintains a register of interests for the Convener, Members and Executive Director of the Standards Commission, which is published on the Standards Commission's website at:

www.standardscommissionscotland.org.uk/about-us/who-we-are.

During 2023/24, no interests were assessed as being so significant that they might conflict with the organisation's responsibilities. Any significant interests of staff are also registered. No interests were assessed as significant.

Personal Data Related Incidents

There was one data breach in the year. The Executive Director determined that the incident was a relatively minor, low risk data security incident where the personal email addresses of the Standards Commission members were inadvertently shared with the ESC. There was no suggestion of any prejudice to the rights and freedoms of the data subjects whose personal information was incorrectly disclosed, and the personal data involved was normal category data. As such, the Executive Director concluded that there was no requirement to report the matter to the Information Commissioner's Office.

CORPORATE GOVERNANCE: STATEMENT OF ACCOUNTABLE OFFICER'S RESPONSIBILITIES

Under Schedule 1 paragraph 10E of the Ethical Standards in Public Life etc. (Scotland) Act 2000 (the Act), as amended, Scottish Ministers have directed the Standards Commission to prepare for each financial year a statement of accounts in the form and on the basis set out in the Accounts Direction. The accounts are prepared on an accruals basis and must give a true and fair view of the state of affairs of the Standards Commission and of its income and expenditure, Statement of Financial Position and cash flows for the financial year.

In preparing the accounts, the Accountable Officer is required to comply with the requirements of the Government Financial Reporting Manual (FReM) and in particular to:

- (i) observe the Accounts Direction issued by Scottish Ministers, including the relevant accounting and disclosure requirements, and apply suitable accounting policies on a consistent basis;
- (ii) make judgements and estimates on a reasonable basis;
- (iii) state whether applicable accounting standards as set out in the FReM have been followed, and disclose and explain any material departures in the financial statements;
- (iv) prepare the financial statements on a "going concern" basis; and
- (v) confirm that the Annual Report and Accounts as a whole is fair, balanced and understandable and take personal responsibility for the Annual Report and Accounts and the judgements required for determining that it is fair, balanced and understandable.

The Scottish Parliamentary Corporate Body (SPCB) appointed Lorna Johnston as Accountable Officer of the Standards Commission. The responsibilities of an Accountable Officer include responsibility for the propriety and regularity of the public finances for which the Accountable Officer is answerable, for keeping proper records and for safeguarding the Standards Commission's assets, are set out in the Memorandum of the Accountable Officer of the Standards Commission issued by the SPCB on 1 December 2014.

Disclosure of Information to Auditors

As Accountable Officer, I can confirm that:

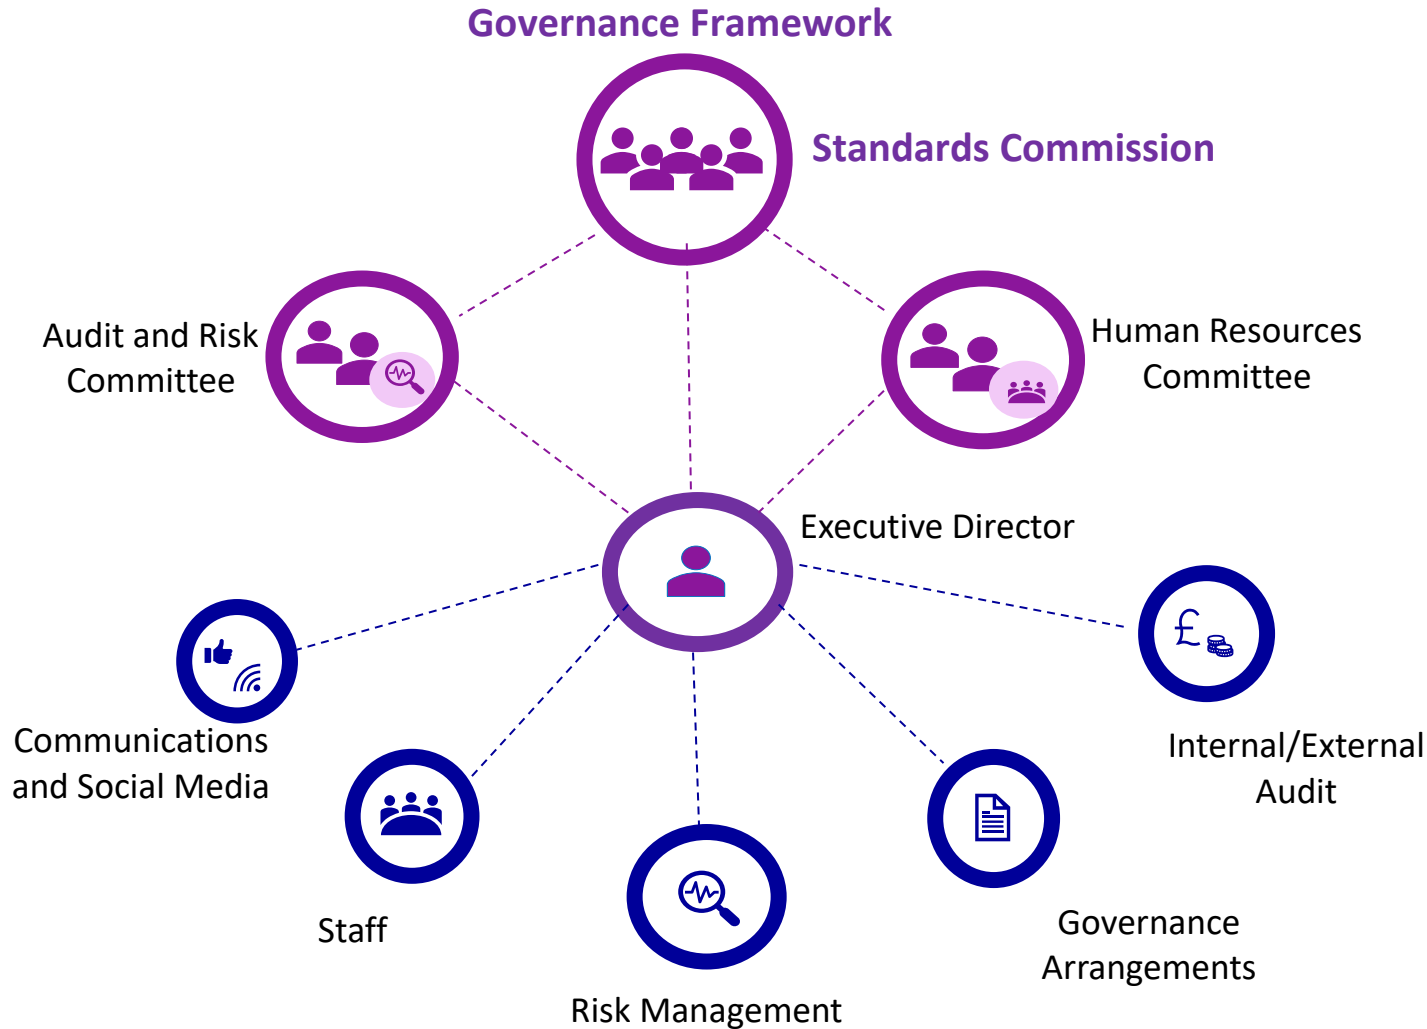

- As far as I am aware, there is no relevant audit information of which the Standards Commission's auditors are unaware, and I have taken all the steps that I ought to have taken to make myself aware of any relevant audit information and to establish that the auditors are aware of that information.
- I confirm that the annual report and accounts as a whole is fair, balanced and understandable and that I take personal responsibility for the annual report and accounts and the judgments required for determining that it is fair, balanced and understandable.

CORPORATE GOVERNANCE REPORT: GOVERNANCE STATEMENT

Scope of Responsibility

As Accountable Officer, I am responsible for maintaining a sound system of internal control that supports the Standards Commission in the achievement of organisational aims, objectives and statutory duties while safeguarding the public funds and assets for which I am responsible, in accordance with the responsibilities assigned to me.

The Standards Commission has the following governance arrangements in place. I am satisfied, for the reasons outlined below, that they operated effectively in 2023/24.

The Standards Commission has five Members who are appointed on a part-time basis by the SPCB, with the agreement of the Scottish Parliament. The SPCB is responsible for determining the terms and conditions of Members’ appointments. Members are supported by four members of staff employed directly by the Standards Commission.

The Standards Commission is funded through the SPCB and, each year, an evidence-based budget bid is submitted for scrutiny and approval. The budget is based on the aims outlined in the Standards Commission’s four-year strategic plan in place at the time, and the proposed actions identified in its annual business plan. The budget is scrutinised and approved by the Standards Commission prior to submission to the SPCB, to ensure it reflects requirements and best value. Expenditure against budget is analysed by the Executive Team on a monthly basis, with formal quarterly reports on this being reviewed and scrutinised by the Standards Commission. This system allows for any budgetary and financial concerns to be identified and addressed at any early stage.

As noted above, the Standard Commission operates against a four-year Strategic Plan, the objectives of which are delivered through the implementation of annual business plans. All actions in the business plan are linked to one of the strategic objectives, with specific targets and measurement identified for each activity. In addition, reference is made to any applicable risks as identified in the Standards Commission's annual Risk Register. The Standards Commission reviews progress against the Business Plan at the end of every quarter, with any new actions identified being added and any slippage against targets being kept under review.

The Standards Commission meets ten times a year. Two Members of the Standards Commission have been nominated to sit on its Audit & Risk Committee, with a further two on its Human Resources Committee. Agendas for all Standards Commission and Committee meetings are prepared in consultation with the Convener and relevant Chair. Minutes are taken of all meetings and a log of matters arising is kept and reviewed as a standard agenda item at the following meeting.

The Standards Commission's Audit & Risk Committee is responsible for ensuring appropriate corporate governance and risk management procedures, policies and controls are in place and are effectively managed. The Committee meets three times a year and provides the Standards Commission with advice and assurance on these matters.

The Human Resources Committee meets once a year and is responsible for providing assurance and support in respect of matters relating to staff, including staffing and human resource arrangements.

Risk Control and Management

The Standards Commission operates a risk management strategy in accordance with accepted best practice principles and guidance. This includes identification, assessment, addressing, reviewing and reporting on risks that could deflect the Standards Commission from the achievement of its objectives as identified in the strategic and business plans, in the context of the Standards Commission's risk appetite. The strategy is designed to manage, rather than eliminate, risks which could impact on the Standards Commission's ability to achieve its statutory duties and strategic aims and objectives.

The Standards Commission agrees its risk register annually at the start of each operational year to ensure that risks to the implementation of the strategic and operational objectives are identified going forward. The Standards Commission's Executive Team monitors and updates the risk register at least three times a year, in order to:

- discuss and evaluate the key business risks which might affect the ability to deliver the business plan;
- recommend any risks be removed or added to the register, as appropriate;
- assess existing controls (the measures in place to reduce or limit risk);
- determine the appropriate response to each risk;
- allocate responsibility for managing each risk; and
- identify and record activities undertaken since the previous review to reduce or limit risks on the register.

The Executive Team considers and rates the likelihood of each risk occurring and its impact should it occur, in light of the controls in place and actions taken. The Executive Team then makes a recommendation to the Audit & Risk Committee about the rating value attached to each risk. The Audit & Risk Committee reviews the Risk Register to check it contains all relevant and material risks at each of its meetings. The Committee also reviews the rating value for each risk and the risk tolerance level, to ensure these reflect changing priorities and the evolving business and political landscape. A report of the review is thereafter provided to Members for consideration at the next meeting of the Standards Commission.

Internal and External Audit

The objective of audit is to provide independent assurance on the adequacy and effectiveness of systems of governance and controls, which have been established to manage the risks to enable the achievement of organisational goals and ensure accountability for public funds.

As Accountable Officer, I have responsibility to review the effectiveness of the systems of internal control. These measures are reviewed regularly to:

- take account of changes to legislation, guidance and best practice;
- reflect the views of the Audit & Risk Committee;
- review and respond to queries from internal auditors and implement any recommendations they make;
- review and address the outcomes identified by external auditors in their management report; and
- consider advice from the staff who contribute to the development and maintenance of the internal control framework.

An annual internal audit programme for the Standards Commission is agreed with the Scottish Parliament's Head of Internal Audit as part of a shared service agreement supported by a Memorandum of Understanding. It was agreed the internal auditor would review the Standards Commission's training and induction processes for new Members, as part of the 2023/24 audit. The review aimed to provide assurance about the quality of the existing Member training and induction processes and identify any improvements that could be made to ensure that best practice was achieved.

The internal auditor reported that based on the audit work performed, there is sufficient audit evidence in place to confirm that the Standards Commission has appropriate arrangements in place in relation to the training and induction process for new members including an induction plan and pack. There are no significant risks arising from this review and the suggested minor recommendations, in respect of undertaking some of the training in person and recording progress, will be implemented by the Standards Commission. The overall internal audit conclusion is that satisfactory assurance can be taken from the areas reviewed.

During 2023/24 the External Audit oversight was provided by Audit Scotland, who audited the annual report and accounts and reported to the Audit & Risk Committee.

Review of the Effectiveness of Governance Arrangements

I am satisfied that the governance arrangements outlined above comply with generally accepted best value principles and relevant guidance.

The internal auditor has affirmed the strength of the Standards Commission's existing controls and governance arrangements. I can confirm that the Standards Commission adhered to the governance arrangements outlined above in 2023/24 and that, as such, assurance can be given that the Standards Commission continued to have a strong control framework. This, and the relatively limited scope of the Standards Commission's activities and overall budget, provides further assurance that the areas of risk are limited.

The Standards Commission met on ten occasions in 2023/24, in order for Members to undertake their strategic direction setting and scrutiny roles.

During 2023/24, the Standards Commission identified the principal risks and uncertainties for the organisation as, firstly, there being a loss of confidence in the overall ethical standards framework as a result of:

- avoidable delays in the disposal of complaints; and
- the Standards Commission failing to adhere to the key principles of public life and its own Code of Conduct.

The second key risk identified was that the Standards Commission would have insufficient resources in terms of staff time and knowledge, and Members' knowledge, time and availability, to meet its business objectives and comply timeously with its statutory duties and any reporting requirements.

Work the Standards Commission undertook to mitigate these risks included inviting the ESC to quarterly meetings with Members. The ESC provided, via a fortnightly report, information about timescales and the number of complaints at admissibility and investigation stages. The Standards Commission's Executive Team also held regular meetings with the ESC to discuss the timescales for potential referrals, any complaint trends and other matters of common interest.

The Standards Commission carried out a review of the case decisions it had made in 2022/23 to identify trends and ensure consistency and clarity in reasoning. It also sought feedback on all Hearings and considered any received as part of a standard review at the Standards Commission meeting following the Hearing, so that improvements could be made to policies and processes as appropriate. This review also included analysis and discussion on what went well or otherwise, and what could have been done differently.

Standards Commission Members agreed that any complaints that a Standards Commission Member has breached the Code of Conduct will be investigated by an external legal firm with any upheld findings being reported to the SPCB.

Further detail on actions taken to mitigate these risks have been detailed in the Key Issues and Risks section of the Performance Report.

As previously noted in the Performance Report, the Standards Commission has identified two key risks for 2024/25:

- The Standards Commission has insufficient resources in terms of staff time and knowledge, and Members' knowledge, time and availability, which means it is unable to:
 - Achieve objectives identified in the annual Business Plan;
 - Comply with its statutory, contractual and reporting duties (including in respect of the annual accounts and report, the budget submission and payment of invoices, salaries and pension contributions); and
 - Meet its key performance indicators and comply with its Hearing Rules and Service Standards.
- The Standards Commission fails to make fair, consistent, well-reasoned, proportionate and clear decisions in respect of cases referred by the ESC.

Controls and actions to mitigate these risks have been identified and outlined in the Standards Commission's Risk Register for 2024/25. These include:

- Scheduling Hearings for dates where it is understood that sufficient staffing will be available.
- Holding regular meetings with the ESC to discuss timescales, workloads and the progress of investigations.
- Providing training to the new Convener and two new Members. An experienced Member will be appointed to mentor each new Member.
- Providing refresher training for all Members on the revised Codes and Guidance (or specific topics within them), the Hearing process and relevancy of evidence.
- Providing refresher training to all Members on good practice in decision-making and the conduct of Hearings.
- Providing refresher training to all staff and Members on data protection and cybersecurity.
- Undertaking ongoing research in respect of relevant case law, appeal decisions and cases / or work in analogous organisations / jurisdictions.
- Continuing to monitor compliance with the timescales in the Hearing Rules and Service Standards.
- Undertaking a key person dependency analysis and undertaking actions to mitigate any identified risks.
- Seeking feedback and undertaking a review of all case decisions at the following meeting of the Standards Commission to check for consistency and to identify any learning points.

The Standards Commission is committed to a process of continuous development and improvement and seeks to improve practices, policies and procedures in response to any relevant reviews and initiatives in best practice. It will continue to be guided by the Scottish Public Finance Manual in this regard.

Significant Issues

During the financial year to 31 March 2024 and to the date of this statement, no significant control weaknesses or issues or significant lapses in data security have arisen, and no significant failures have arisen in respect of the expected standards for good governance and risk management.

Provision of Information to Employees

The Standards Commission has adopted the principles of openness and participation in its organisation and places a high level of importance on informing, and consulting with, its staff. It does so by providing access to information through oral and written briefings, staff meetings and by involving staff at events. Information is only withheld where this can be shown to be justified and / or where a duty of confidentiality is owed.

Events Subsequent to the date of the Statement of Financial Position

No material events which had a bearing on the accounts occurred after the year-end.

Conclusion

On the basis of the assurances provided from the sources of assurance outlined above, I can confirm that sound systems of governance, risk management and internal control have operated for the year ended 31 March 2024 and up to the date of approval of the Annual Accounts.

¹ This includes £800 paid to the Executive Director under the Exceptional Contribution Scheme.

² The value of contributions made by the employer to the Executive Director's pension scheme. Pension benefits are not included in this table for 2023/24 due to an exceptional delay in the calculation of these figures following the application of the public service pensions remedy.

Pensions Benefits*

Accrued pension benefits for directors are not included for 2023/24 due to an exceptional delay in the calculation of these figures following the application of the public service pensions remedy.

The figures relating to pension and pension benefits are provided by MyCSP Ltd which administers the Civil Service Pension Scheme on behalf of the Cabinet Office.

The Cash Equivalent Transfer Value (CETV)

A CETV is the actuarially assessed capitalised value of the pension scheme benefits accrued by a member at a particular point in time. The benefits valued are the member's accrued benefits and any contingent spouse's pension payable from the scheme. A CETV is a payment made by a pension scheme or arrangement to secure pension benefits in another pension scheme or arrangement when the member leaves a scheme and chooses to transfer the benefits accrued in their former scheme. The pension figures shown relate to the benefits that the individual has accrued as a consequence of their total membership of the pension scheme, not just their service in a senior capacity to which disclosure applies.

The figures include the value of any pension benefit in another scheme or arrangement, which the member has transferred to the Civil Service pension arrangements. They also include any additional pension benefit accrued to the member as a result of their buying additional pension benefits at their own cost. CETVs are worked out in accordance with The Occupational Pension Schemes (Transfer Values) (Amendment) Regulations 2008 and do not take account of any actual or potential reduction to benefits resulting from Lifetime Allowance Tax which may be due when pension benefits are taken.

Real Increase in CETV

This reflects the increase in CETV that is funded by the employer. It does not include the increase in accrued pension due to inflation, contributions paid by the employee (including the value of any benefits transferred from another pension scheme or arrangement) and common market valuation factors for the start and end of the period.

Employees' Pension

Details of the pension scheme and contributions can be found in notes 1.4 and 3 of the Accounts.

Fair Pay Disclosure*

Reporting bodies are required to disclose the relationship between the remuneration of the highest-paid member of the senior staff in their organisation and the lower quartile, median and upper quartile remuneration of the organisation's workforce. Total remuneration includes salary, non-consolidated performance-related pay and benefits in kind. It does not include severance payments, employer pension contributions or the cash equivalent transfer value of pensions. It is based on annualised, full time equivalent remuneration of all staff.

	2023/24 £'000	2022/23 £'000
Remuneration banding for highest paid member of staff	80-85	75-80
Percentage change from previous financial year for highest paid member of staff	1.3%	10.5%

Remuneration range	£31,000 to £80,000 - £85,000	£31,000 to £75,000 - £80,000

The above data for 2023/24 includes the impact of the SPCB pay award for all staff for that year which was effective from 1 February 2023. The data for 2022/23 includes the impact of two annual pay awards, one for 2022/23 which was effective from 1 April 2022 and one for 2023/24 which was effective from 1 February 2023. Since the data for 2022/23 includes the impact of two pay awards, percentage changes for that year are significantly higher than for 2023/24. The movement in the percentage change for employees in 2023/24 is also due to pay grade progression for two members of staff.

STAFF REPORT

Executive Director / Accountable Officer

Lorna Johnston, the Executive Director and senior manager, was appointed by the SPCB as the Accountable Officer with effect from 1 December 2014.

Breakdown of Staff Costs*

	2023/24			2022/23
	£'000	£'000	£'000	£'000	£'000	£'000

Pension costs	48	0	48	41	0	41
	300	66	234	252	45	207

The Standards Commission adopts the SPCB's paycales and its Members' remuneration is determined by the SPCB. Member salaries include payments for Hearings which were higher in 2023/24 than in 2022/23 as a result of 16 Hearings being held in the year compared to six in 2022/23. Staff salaries increased in line with the annual SPCB pay award (which was higher in 2023/24 than in 2022/23). Salaries include a provision covering the value of outstanding leave (the leave accrual).

Employee Numbers and Gender Breakdown*

The average number of full time equivalent (FTE) persons appointed to and employed by the Standards Commission during the year was as follows:

	2023/24	2022/23
	FTE	FTE
Members	0.5	0.5
Employees	3.1	3.1

For the purposes of reporting in a consistent format across the Public Sector, Commission Members are deemed to be 'Directors' and the Executive Director is identified as the 'Senior Manager'. At 31 March 2024, the gender breakdown was as follows:

	2024		2023
	Female	Male	Female	Male
Directors	4	1	4	1
Employees	2	1	2	1

Average Sickness Absence Report

For the 12-month period from 1 April 2023 to 31 March 2024, five working days were lost as a result of sickness absence (2022/23, zero).

Recruitment and employment policies applied during the financial year

Staff employed by the Standards Commission are appointed on merit following the completion of a fair and open competition process. The Standards Commission follows the SPCB's principles in respect of recruitment and appointment, which are outlined on the Scottish Parliament's website under the heading Recruiting for Excellence.

The SPCB's recruitment and employment policies state that all job applicants and staff are treated fairly, with respect and without bias. The SPCB policies that apply specifically to the employment of disabled persons, which have been adopted by the Standards Commission, include:

- An accessibility commitment under which applications for employment made to the Standards Commission by disabled persons are given full and fair consideration having regard to their particular aptitudes and abilities;
- One on one reasonable adjustments and continued support for the continuing employment of, and arrangements for appropriate training of, employees who have become disabled persons during the period when they were employed by the Standards Commission; and
- The training, career development and promotion of disabled persons supported through the disabled staff in the workplace policy.

Independent auditor's report to the members of the Standards Commission for Scotland, the Auditor General for Scotland and the Scottish Parliament

Reporting on the audit of the financial statements

Opinion on financial statements

I have audited the financial statements in the annual report and accounts of the Standards Commission for Scotland for the year ended 31 March 2024 under the Ethical Standards in Public Life etc. (Scotland) Act 2000. The financial statements comprise the Statement of Comprehensive Net Expenditure, the Statement of Financial Position, the Statement of Cash Flows, the Statement of Changes in Taxpayers' Equity and notes to the financial statements, including material accounting policy information. The financial reporting framework that has been applied in their preparation is applicable law and UK adopted international accounting standards, as interpreted and adapted by the 2023/24 Government Financial Reporting Manual (the 2023/24 FReM).

In my opinion the accompanying financial statements:

- give a true and fair view of the state of the body's affairs as at 31 March 2024 and of its net expenditure for the year then ended;
- have been properly prepared in accordance with UK adopted international accounting standards, as interpreted and adapted by the 2023/24 FReM; and
- have been prepared in accordance with the requirements of the Ethical Standards in Public Life etc. (Scotland) 2000 and directions made thereunder by the Scottish Ministers.

Basis for opinion

I conducted my audit in accordance with applicable law and International Standards on Auditing (UK) (ISAs (UK)), as required by the Code of Audit Practice approved by the Auditor General for Scotland. My responsibilities under those standards are further described in the auditor's responsibilities for the audit of the financial statements section of my report. I was appointed by the Auditor General on 02 December 2022. My period of appointment is five years, covering 2022/23 to 2026/27. I am independent of the body in accordance with the ethical requirements that are relevant to my audit of the financial statements in the UK including the Financial Reporting Council's Ethical Standard, and I have fulfilled my other ethical responsibilities in accordance with these requirements. Non-audit services prohibited by the Ethical Standard were not provided to the body. I believe that the audit evidence I have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for my opinion.

Conclusions relating to going concern basis of accounting

I have concluded that the use of the going concern basis of accounting in the preparation of the financial statements is appropriate.

Based on the work I have performed, I have not identified any material uncertainties relating to events or conditions that, individually or collectively, may cast significant doubt on the body's ability to continue to adopt the going concern basis of accounting for a period of at least twelve months from when the financial statements are authorised for issue.

These conclusions are not intended to, nor do they, provide assurance on the body's current or future financial sustainability. However, I report on the body's arrangements for financial sustainability in a separate Annual Audit Report available from the Audit Scotland website

Risks of material misstatement

I report in my separate Annual Audit Report the most significant assessed risks of material misstatement that I identified and my judgements thereon.

Responsibilities of the Accountable Officer for the financial statements

As explained more fully in the Statement of Accountable Officer's Responsibilities, the Accountable Officer is responsible for the preparation of financial statements that give a true and fair view in accordance with the financial reporting framework, and for such internal control as the Accountable Officer determines is necessary to enable the preparation of financial statements that are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error.

In preparing the financial statements, the Accountable Officer is responsible for assessing the body's ability to continue as a going concern, disclosing, as applicable, matters related to going concern and using the going concern basis of accounting unless there is an intention to discontinue the body's operations.

Auditor's responsibilities for the audit of the financial statements

My objectives are to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements as a whole are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error, and to issue an auditor's report that includes my opinion. Reasonable assurance is a high level of assurance but is not a guarantee that an audit conducted in accordance with ISAs (UK) will always detect a material misstatement when it exists. Misstatements can arise from fraud or error and are considered material if, individually or in the aggregate, they could reasonably be expected to influence the decisions of users taken on the basis of these financial statements.

Irregularities, including fraud, are instances of non-compliance with laws and regulations. I design procedures in line with my responsibilities outlined above to detect material misstatements in respect of irregularities, including fraud. Procedures include:

- using my understanding of the central government sector to identify that the Ethical Standards in Public Life etc. (Scotland) Act 2000 and directions made thereunder by the Scottish Ministers are significant in the context of the body;
- inquiring of the Accountable Officer as to other laws or regulations that may be expected to have a fundamental effect on the operations of the body;
- inquiring of the Accountable Officer concerning the body's policies and procedures regarding compliance with the applicable legal and regulatory framework;
- discussions among my audit team on the susceptibility of the financial statements to material misstatement, including how fraud might occur; and
- considering whether the audit team collectively has the appropriate competence and capabilities to identify or recognise non-compliance with laws and regulations.

The extent to which my procedures are capable of detecting irregularities, including fraud, is affected by the inherent difficulty in detecting irregularities, the effectiveness of the body's controls, and the nature, timing and extent of the audit procedures performed.

Irregularities that result from fraud are inherently more difficult to detect than irregularities that result from error as fraud may involve collusion, intentional omissions, misrepresentations, or the override of internal control. The capability of the audit to detect fraud and other irregularities depends on factors such as the skilfulness of the perpetrator, the frequency and extent of manipulation, the degree of collusion involved, the relative size of individual amounts manipulated, and the seniority of those individuals involved.

A further description of the auditor's responsibilities for the audit of the financial statements is located on the Financial Reporting Council's website www.frc.org.uk/auditorsresponsibilities. This description forms part of my auditor's report.

Reporting on regularity of expenditure and income

Opinion on regularity

In my opinion in all material respects the expenditure and income in the financial statements were incurred or applied in accordance with any applicable enactments and guidance issued by the Scottish Ministers.

Responsibilities for regularity

The Accountable Officer is responsible for ensuring the regularity of expenditure and income. In addition to my responsibilities in respect of irregularities explained in the audit of the financial statements section of my report, I am responsible for expressing an opinion on the regularity of expenditure and income in accordance with the Public Finance and Accountability (Scotland) Act 2000.

Reporting on other requirements

Opinion prescribed by the Auditor General for Scotland on audited part of the Remuneration and Staff Report

I have audited the parts of the Remuneration and Staff Report described as audited. In my opinion, the audited part of the Remuneration and Staff Report has been properly prepared in accordance with the Ethical Standards in Public Life etc (Scotland) Act 2000 and directions made thereunder by the Scottish Ministers.

Other information

The Accountable Officer is responsible for the other information in the annual report and accounts. The other information comprises the Performance Report and the Accountability Report excluding the audited parts of the Remuneration and Staff Report.

My responsibility is to read all the other information and, in doing so, consider whether the other information is materially inconsistent with the financial statements or my knowledge obtained in the course of the audit or otherwise appears to be materially misstated. If I identify such material inconsistencies or apparent material misstatements, I am required to determine whether this gives rise to a material misstatement in the financial statements themselves. If, based on the work I have performed, I conclude that there is a material misstatement of this other information, I am required to report that fact. I have nothing to report in this regard.

My opinion on the financial statements does not cover the other information and I do not express any form of assurance conclusion thereon except on the Performance Report and Governance Statement to the extent explicitly stated in the following opinions prescribed by the Auditor General for Scotland.

Opinions prescribed by the Auditor General for Scotland on Performance Report and Governance Statement

In my opinion, based on the work undertaken in the course of the audit:

- the information given in the Performance Report for the financial year for which the financial statements are prepared is consistent with the financial statements and that report has been prepared in accordance with the Ethical Standards in Public Life etc. (Scotland) Act 2000 and directions made thereunder by the Scottish Ministers; and
- the information given in the Governance Statement for the financial year for which the financial statements are prepared is consistent with the financial statements and that report has been prepared in accordance with the Ethical Standards in Public Life etc. (Scotland) Act 2000 and directions made thereunder by the Scottish Ministers.

Matters on which I am required to report by exception

I am required by the Auditor General for Scotland to report to you if, in my opinion:

- adequate accounting records have not been kept; or
- the financial statements and the audited parts of the Remuneration and Staff Report are not in agreement with the accounting records; or
- I have not received all the information and explanations I require for my audit.

I have nothing to report in respect of these matters.

Conclusions on wider scope responsibilities

In addition to my responsibilities for the annual report and accounts, my conclusions on the wider scope responsibilities specified in the Code of Audit Practice are set out in my Annual Audit Report.

Use of my report

This report is made solely to the parties to whom it is addressed in accordance with the Public Finance and Accountability (Scotland) Act 2000 and for no other purpose. In accordance with paragraph 108 of the Code of Audit Practice, I do not undertake to have responsibilities to members or officers, in their individual capacities, or to third parties.

NOTES TO THE ACCOUNTS

1 STATEMENT OF ACCOUNTING POLICIES

These financial statements have been prepared in accordance with the Government Financial Reporting Manual (FReM), in compliance with the accounts direction issued by Scottish Ministers. The accounting policies contained in the FReM apply International Financial Reporting Standards (IFRS) as adapted or interpreted for the public sector context. Where the FReM permits a choice of accounting policy, the accounting policy which is judged to be most appropriate to the particular circumstances of the Standards Commission for the purpose of giving a true and fair view has been selected. The particular policies adopted by the Standards Commission are described below. They have been applied consistently in dealing with items that are considered material to the accounts.

The accounts have been prepared on a going concern basis as explained in the Performance Report on page 5.

1.1 Accounting convention

These accounts have been prepared under the historical cost convention.

1.2 Funding

The accounts are prepared on an accrual basis, but the body is funded on a cash received basis. Funding received from the SPCB is credited directly to the general fund in the period to which it relates. The SPCB provides a transaction processing and recording function for the Standards Commission. Accordingly, a bank account is not operated by the Standards Commission.

1.3 Provisions

The Standards Commission provides for legal or constructive obligations that are of uncertain timing or amount at the year end date on the basis of the best estimate of the expenditure required to settle the obligation.

1.4 Staff Pension Arrangements

Employees of the Standards Commission, while not Civil Servants, are nevertheless eligible to join the Civil Service pension arrangements. These statutory arrangements are unfunded multi-employer defined benefit schemes but the Standards Commission is unable to identify its share of the underlying assets and liabilities. The Scheme Actuary valued the scheme as at 31 March 2020. Details of the resource accounts of the Cabinet Office: Civil Superannuation can be found at www.civilservicepensionscheme.org.uk.

For the purposes of this Statement of Account, it is therefore accounted for on the same basis as a defined contribution scheme and no liability is shown in the Statement of Financial Position.

1.5 Value Added Tax

The Standards Commission is not VAT registered and all VAT is charged to the Accounts.

2 STAFF

2.1 Average staff employed (full time equivalent)

The contribution rates reflect benefits as they are accrued, not when the costs are actually incurred, and reflect past experience of the scheme. Outstanding scheme contributions at 31 March 2024 amounted to £3,969 (2023: £3,364).
